1908

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT.

The Newberry Library, January 1, 1908.

To His Excellency Charles S. Deneen,
Governor of the State of Illinois,
Springfield, Illinois.

Sir: In accordance with the provisions of an Act entitled: "An Act to encourage and promote the establishment of free public libraries in cities, villages, and towns of this State" (Illinois), approved June 17, 1891, under which this Corporation is organized, the Trustees of the Newberry Library submit this their sixteenth annual report, for the year 1907.

There has been no change in the Board of Trustees during the past year. The names of the Trustees and Officers, with the respective members of the Standing Committees of the Library, are given in Exhibit I. The duties of these Committees through which the work of the Library is administered is indicated by their names: the Executive Committee; the Committee on Investments and Finance; on Buildings; on Administration; on Audit; and on Books.

Exhibit II presents a list of the Trustees from the organization of the Library on April 13, 1892, to the present time.

The annual report of the Librarian, appended and marked Exhibit III, presents the general condition of the Library at this date, and Exhibit IV the condensed statistics of attendance, use of the Library, accessions of books, pamphlets, maps, manuscripts, autograph letters, and charts, during the year, with total number of volumes and pamphlets, etc., at its close.

As presenting an important department of the Library

during the past year, and its increasing usefulness to the public as a "Reference Library," I include the Annual Report presented to the Board of Trustees by the Chairman of the Committee on Books:

"The Committee on Books has expended during the year past about $3,500.00 in addition to the amount specifically appropriated for books by the Board of Trustees. This was covered by a special appropriation of the amount, enabling the purchase from Wilberforce Eames of a collection of works upon the philology of the various nations of India. This collection represents the work of Mr. Eames for the greater part of his life, a work pursued under circumstances of especial advantage. It forms a valuable addition to the Bonaparte collection, which was principally in the philology of the European nations. It may not be amiss to refer in this connection to the vast collection of works upon the philology of the American Indian nations, and also of the different nations inhabiting the Philippine Islands, belonging to Mr. Edward E. Ayer. The princely generosity of Mr. Ayer has made this immense collection available to the patrons of the Newberry Library, a considerable portion of these books being already placed upon our shelves in a room set apart for that purpose. A goodly number of the collections heretofore made by the Newberry Library, in the way of town, county, and other local histories, combine admirably with the collection of Mr. Ayer. This collection Mr. Ayer has oftentimes intimated will ultimately be the property of the Library. Counting our own collections and that of Mr. Ayer as one, the Newberry Library is to-day far in advance of the accumulations, in the line of Americana, of any other library in the United States.

The Newberry Library desires to be especially full in the different departments of history. Including the publications regarding the Civil War, the books which may be considered historical considerably exceed 40,000 volumes. A large majority of such books are in the field of American and English history, as would naturally be expected. For many years after the Library was organized, its especial aims were in this direction, but as the Library became measurably well filled in this line, a goodly number of purchases have been made as to the history of other nations, especially those of Europe. Two years ago, however, an opportunity arrived to purchase the rare and important collection of books which may be termed the sources of French history; and a year later, a similar collection, made by Nijhoff, of the most important source historical works of the Netherlands was acquired. Similar work in regard to the history of the German people would now seem to be a matter of special importance, both from the fact that within the last fifty years vast numbers of Germans have become citizens of our country, and especially owing to the fact that going back to the source of German history brings us even closer, since the original Saxon nation combined with the early people of England to make up the Anglo-Saxon nation, so that the early history of Germany becomes a part of our own family tradition. It is expected by your Book Committee during the current year to make liberal appropriations for the purchase of the source histories of the different branches of the German people.

Regarding the expenditures for the current year, they have been largely in similar lines to those in the past few years. City, county, and town histories; a small collection of books upon Spanish literature, as suggested by Miss Wallace of the Chicago University; a collection of 250 volumes, the publications of the Typographical Society of Italy, containing the works of the great Italian writers to the end of the 18th century; a considerable proportion of the publications of the Roxburghe Club, the missing volumes to be acquired hereafter.

In the matter of the town and county histories, the editions are usually limited to two or three hundred volumes annually. Many such histories, which are often being sought, were issued before the organization of the Newberry Library, and as the editions were usually very small, many of these we have been unable as yet to purchase. A list of these rare books is kept constantly in hand, and the books are sought for in the multitudinous catalogues of the dealers. The year 1907 has been one in which we have been especially fortunate, as we have secured thirty volumes of those most rare and valuable. This work is constantly in mind, and we hope ultimately to secure all these rare early volumes.

Your attention has already been called to the nucleus proposed to be acquired of books relative to the philology and history of the mysterious peoples of Thibet. By the Committee. (Signed) Franklin H. Head, Chairman."

A statement of the Assets of the Newberry Library and its Real Estate is presented in Exhibit VII, with the total expenditures for books, periodicals, pamphlets, etc., and fittings of the Library from its foundation to date.

The list of publications given to the Library during the past year, with the names of the donors, is presented in Exhibit VI. It is a valuable collection. In addition to the usual acknowledgment made by the Secretary and Librarian, the Trustees would herewith offer their special thanks. It is interesting to note the scope of these accessions. Valuable documentary publications have come from eleven states: chief among them, Michigan donates 117, Montana 171, Ohio 233, and Vermont 302. The United States Government, as usual, heads the list in its varied and valuable contributions. Ontario supplies 138. From South America, with which our commercial relations are so rapidly enlarging, we have received large additions, from the Argentine Republic, Brazil, Bolivia, Peru, British Guiana; and additions of similar character have come from other nations — the French Republic, Denmark, China, Japan, Queensland, South Australia, Federated Malay States, Fiji. In this connection it is of interest to note that in our list of over nine hundred current periodicals taken, twenty languages are represented.

Special mention should be made at this time of the recent action of the Trustees in appropriating $4,000.00 for securing a collection of Thibetan literature. This work has been undertaken in connection with the Field Museum of Natural History, whose Assistant Curator of Asiatic Ethnology — Dr. Berthold Laufer — has already been dispatched on this errand. For the Field Museum he will conduct investigation and the purchase of a collection which will illustrate the ethnology of Thibet. For the Newberry Library he will gather a library of Thibetan literature, which associates itself with the literature of China, Korea, Mongolia, and Japan. The recent marvelous development of these countries and their connection with our own country has created a demand for whatever can be obtained of authentic value, from original sources, relating to the thought, religion, history, government, and life of these nations. I quote from Dr. Laufer's letter: "Collections in this literature are extremely rare, only three libraries in Europe — the Indian Office Library in London, the Royal Library in Berlin, and the Libraries of St. Petersburg have a limited number of Thibetan books." Dr. Laufer's life of some fourteen years as a student of this literature, his residence in China, his student life for over a year with a Lama from Lassa, his connection with the American Museum of Natural History of New York City, his membership in the faculty of the Columbia University in the Chinese Department, his assistance rendered Mr. J. P. Morgan of New York in securing Thibetan MSS. and his high position in the learned societies of Europe, warrant the opinion expressed by Dr. Dorsey of the Field Museum that "Dr. Laufer is as well equipped as anyone in the world to secure such a library." He adds, "I have known Dr. Laufer for years and have known him to be a scholar and a gentleman. Such a collection made by an expert would give the Newberry Library prestige among the libraries of the world."

Dr. Laufer is already en route for an absence of three years on this commission.

The transfer of the Medical Department of the Newberry Library to the John Crerar Library, the particulars of which were presented in the last annual report, was accomplished during the past year. The spacious rooms on the first floor of the Newberry Library, vacated by the medical libraries, have been admirably utilized. They contain the priceless Americana collections of Mr. Edward E. Ayer, together with the other special collections stated in Exhibit V.

In this connection, attention may appropriately be called to a unique feature of the Library, in which the public have shown an increasing interest — the paintings presented to the Library by the late George P. A. Healy. This collection consists of 46 canvases, of which 20 are distinctively of large historical value, and constitute a practical aid in this branch of study. These portraits indicate the significance of the collection,— Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, and Admiral Porter, connected with our Civil War,— Webster, Everett, Motley, Corcoran, Stanley, President Arthur, Blaine, Archbishop Duggan, among eminent statesmen and civilians at home, and Lord Lytton, Lord Lyons, Bismarck, Jules Simon, Thiers, Gambetta, De Lesseps, and Liszt, abroad. The careful preservation of these paintings, and their favorable location as to light and convenience of visitors, have the attention of the Board.

During the past month two prominent national associations have held their annual meetings in our city, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the Archæological Institute of America. The American Historical Association held its meetings at Madison, Wisconsin, with whom met the American Economic Association, the American Political Science Association, the American Sociological Society, and the American Association for Labor Legislation. In view of the character of these bodies and with a desire to place our Library at their service, invitations were extended to each to visit the Library, with an accompanying statement of special points of interest in our collections. Appreciative acknowledgments were received and some availed themselves of the privilege.

The relation held by Dr. Nicholas Senn during a period of years to the Medical Department of the Newberry Library, wise advice in its development, and generous gifts of valuable works, which amounted when this Department was transferred to the John Crerar Library to 25,190 books and pamphlets, prompted the Trustees to place upon their records a tribute to his memory, which will be found at the close of this Report.

A new edition of the "Hand-book" of the Library has been prepared. This brings down the facts connected with the Library to date, with its several Departments and regulations. Copies of this will be sent to the public libraries, and to the librarians of the colleges, universities and seminaries, and to the principals of public and private schools. The increasing use of the Library, especially in the Department of History, by pupils in the higher grades of our schools, encourages the Trustees to make effort to meet the needs of the coming generation.

The development of Musical Art in the past twenty years is one of the striking features in the progress of our city. The Department of Music, early in the history of The Newberry Library, received special attention at the hands of the Trustees. The increasing use made of our collections, especially within a few years, shows the appreciation of the musical public of the treasures we possess in this line. This Department will continue to receive the attention of our Book Committee.

The word "trustee" never had a meaning of graver significance than it has to-day, whether applied to commercial, educational, or religious organizations. It was in simple but comprehensive language that Walter L. Newberry stated the plan of his generous bequest. I quote his words:

"The other share of my estate shall be applied by my said Trustees to the founding of a Free Public Library, to be located in that portion of the City of Chicago now known as 'The North Division.' And I do hereby authorize and empower my said Trustees to establish such library on such foundation, under such rules and regulations for the government thereof, appropriate such portion of the property set apart for such library, to the erection of proper buildings, and furnishing the same, and such portion to the purchase and procurement of books, maps, charts, and all such other articles and things as they may deem proper and appropriate for a library, and such other portion to constitute a permanent fund, the income of which shall be applicable to the purpose of extending and increasing such library: hereby fully empowering my said Trustees to take such action in regard to such library as they may judge fit and best, having in view the growth, preservation, permanence and general usefulness of such library."

It is now twenty years since this Library began its existence. The work already accomplished and the present condition of the Library have been briefly sketched in this report, but the future opens to us a larger field if we would fulfil the trust created by the Founder, and make this Library a means of intellectual and moral uplift to the public. I know the wisdom and courage that inspire this Board to accomplish these high ends so far as means and opportunity permit. In their behalf would I assure you, as the honored head of this commonwealth that in the responsible position in which they are placed they will with unanimity of purpose endeavor to fulfil the trust created by the generous Founder of the Library, and make this institution of the broadest benefit to the citizens of our city and state.

Respectfully submitted,

E. W. Blatchford,

President.

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE TO DR. NICHOLAS SENN.

At the Annual Meeting of the Trustees of The Newberry Library, held on January 6, 1908, the President, on request, presented the following tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Nicholas Senn, which was ordered placed upon our Records, and a copy sent to the family of Dr. Senn.

JESSE L. MOSS,
Secretary.

THE NEWBERRY LIBRARY, January 6, 1908.

Four days ago there died at his home in our city, Dr. Nicholas Senn. While he held no official connection with the Newberry Library, it has been deemed appropriate by members of our Board of Trust that the prominent interest he took in the development of its Medical Department, with his extensive and valuable contributions to its collections, should be recognized by a memorial tribute at this, the first meeting of the Board since his death.

Dr. Senn was born in Switzerland, October 31, 1844. At the age of nine years his parents came to this country, settling at Ashford, Wisconsin, where he was graduated at the High School at the age of twenty. He entered the Chicago Medical College, where he was graduated at the age of twenty-four, beginning his professional life, however, in Fond du Lac and subsequently in Milwaukee. After a post-graduate course at the University of Michigan, where he made surgery his specialty, he came to the city in 1891. Here his thorough education and ability were at once recognized. Various positions were offered him. He soon became Professor of Surgery in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, subsequently Professor of Principles of Surgery in Rush Medical College, and Professional Lecturer on Military Surgery in the Chicago University. He was made Surgeon-General of the Illinois National Guard, Chief Surgeon of St. Joseph's Hospital, and Attending Surgeon to the Presbyterian Hospital. In 1898 he was appointed Chief Surgeon of the Sixth Army Corps, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, U. S. V., and chief of the operating staff with the army in the field in the Spanish-American War.

His professional standing was soon honorably recognized abroad by his writings and by important positions assigned him as delegate from the United States to international medical gatherings at Berlin, Madrid, Lisbon, Moscow, and notably at St. Petersburg, in 1901, where the honors bestowed upon him were numerous. On his return from this last a reception was given him by the Chicago Medical Society, naturally held in the Newberry Library, and attended by several hundred of the prominent physicians of our city and the neighborhood. His travels in the study of his profession were extensive and his works on medical science were voluminous, occupying an honored place in the scientific libraries of the world. His recent arduous journey to South America for the study of malarial diseases, combined with the difficult ascent of a lofty peak of the Andes, in Peru,— 16,500 feet in height,— proved too much for his indomitable will and developed a weakness of the heart which, with other complications, brought to a sudden end this valuable life.

Dr. Senn early gave his approval to the establishment of the Medical Department of the Newberry Library, demanded by the scantiness of the collections at that date in our city, as well as by the expensiveness of important medical and periodical literature. His influence in bringing our collections and their convenient accessibility to the notice of practitioners and students was recognized. Our chief indebtedness of Dr. Senn, however, is for his large gifts of valuable medical and surgical literature, chiefly selected during his frequent residences abroad, as well as from American publications. Our Board showed its appreciation of their value by appropriating to them a spacious room, which contained 10,689 volumes and 14,501 pamphlets, and also the manuscripts of most of his published writings handsomely bound by the Library. This apartment bore the name "The Senn Room."

The transfer of the Medical Department of the Newberry to the John Crerar Library, made within the past year, had the approbation of Dr. Senn. He appreciated the reasons that influenced our Board in this act, the John Crerar being distinctively a "Library of Science," and the central location being convenient to the concentrated offices of the medical practitioners of our city. Commodious arrangements are now made in the John Crerar Library for this Department, which in the prospective building will be amplified, and comprising and perpetuating "The Senn Room."

The Trustees of the Newberry Library would place upon their records their estimate of Dr. Nicholas Senn as a thorough student; as an instructor communicating inspiration to his students by his teaching and example; an indefatigable worker; generous in his gifts to educational institutions; a skilful, conscientious surgeon, often giving his services to the poor without reward.

The most notable donation of the year has been the Grimani Breviary, presented by the Friday Club. This sumptuous work is a reproduction, to be comprised in twelve folio volumes, of what has been called "the most beautiful book in the world," a manuscript breviary executed for Pope Sixtus IV. by the most famous artists of the fifteenth century. The manuscript was acquired by Cardinal Grimani, later passing into the custody of the republic of Venice, where it is now the proudest possession of the Church of St. Mark. The 831 leaves of the original are decorated with miniatures and borders of distinctive design for each page, including full-page water-colors. Nine volumes have been received and placed in our Museum.

The Library has been fortunate in acquiring for its Department of Philology the (Wilberforce) Eames collection of 3,257 volumes and pamphlets relating to British India, Thibet, and Further India.

We have also acquired a set of the publications of the Roxburghe Club, 1814-1897. This club was instituted in 1812, in London, by a coterie of English and Scottish peers and literary men, among them being Scott, Dibdin, Boswell, Brydges, and Earl Spencer. The reputation of the club was made by the publication of two old English romances, "Havelok the Dane" and "William the Werwolf." Later publications have included other mediæval romances, poems, and ballads printed from manuscript, diaries, and correspondence of public men, and reprints of rare books in several literatures.

Respectfully submitted,

J. V. Cheney,

Librarian.
